

Annex D

Preferential Safeguard Measures

Definitions

Article 1

For the purposes of this Annex:

domestic industry means the producers as a whole of the like or directly competitive products, operating in the territory of the Party, or those whose collective output of the like or directly competitive products constitutes a major proportion of the total domestic production of such products;

serious injury means the significant overall impairment in the position of a domestic industry;

and

threat of serious injury means the serious injury that is clearly imminent, based on facts and not merely on allegation, conjecture or remote possibility.

Conditions for Application of Preferential Safeguard Measures

Article 2

1. The Parties can apply, safeguard measures under the conditions established in this Annex, when the imports of a product under preferential terms under this Agreement have increased in such quantities, absolute or relative to, domestic production of the importing Party under such conditions that the imports of the good from the exporting Party alone⁴ constitute a substantial cause of serious injury, or threat thereof, to the importing Party's domestic industry.

2. Preferential safeguard measures shall be applied following an investigation by the competent authorities of the importing Party under the procedures established in this Annex.

These measures may not be applied simultaneously for the same product with the application of Global Safeguards.

Article 3

⁴ For purposes of certainty, the Parties understand that a Party is not prevented from initiating a preferential safeguard measure investigation in the event of a surge of imports from the territory of the other Party and of non-

Parties. For further certainty the Parties understand that preferential safeguard measures can only be imposed on the other Party when the increase in the imports of such goods from that other Party alone constitute a substantial cause of serious injury or threat of serious injury, to domestic industry producing a like or directly competitive product.

Preferential Safeguard measures may not be applied to any product in the first year after the tariff preferences negotiated under this Agreement come into force.

Article 4

1. The preferential safeguard measures adopted under this Annex shall consist of temporary suspension or reduction of the tariff preferences established in this Agreement for the product subjected to the measure.
2. Preferential safeguard measure, during the first year of its imposition, shall not apply to a quantity equal to that imported during the twelve (12) months prior to the period for which serious injury was determined plus 10%. The period of determination of serious injury would be twelve (12) months starting from the date of initiation of investigation.
3. For the second year of imposition of preferential safeguard measures, the quantity that shall be exempt from the measure will be the quantity as at paragraph 2 plus 10%.
4. In case quantities indicated at paragraphs 2 and 3 cannot be established on account of any reason, the Parties shall enter into mutual consultation to arrive at a satisfactory solution.

Article 5

The total period of application of a preferential safeguard measure shall not exceed two (2) years.

Article 6

No preferential safeguard measure shall be applied again to the import of a product under preferential terms which has been subject to such a measure, unless the period of nonapplication for the same product is at least one year or the duration of the earlier preferential safeguard measure, whichever is higher.

Article 7

The preferential safeguard measures applied in accordance with this Annex shall not affect the imports, which have been cleared by the customs of importing Party prior to the date of entry into force of the measure.

Article 8

The investigation to determine serious injury or threat thereof as a result of increased preferential imports of a certain product shall take into consideration all relevant factors of an objective and quantifiable nature having a bearing on the situation of the domestic industry affected, particularly the following:

- (a) the amount and rate of the increase in preferential imports of the product concerned in absolute and relative terms;

- (b) the share of the domestic market taken by increased preferential imports;
- (c) the price of the preferential imports;
- (d) the consequent impact on the domestic industry of the like or directly competitive products, based on factors, including: production, productivity, capacity utilisation, stock, sales, market share, prices, profits, losses and employment;
- (e) the relationship between the preferential and non-preferential imports; as well as between the increase of one and the other; and
- (f) when factors other than increased preferential imports are causing injury to the domestic industry at the same time, such injury shall not be attributed to the increased preferential imports.

Investigation and Transparency Procedures

Article 9
